TIME IS THE LIFE OF THE SOUL

5,770 years ago our world of time was born. 5,770 years of sunsets, of children being born, crawling, creeping, walking, of successes and disappointments.

Something happens to us as we live year by year. As we mature, our sense of time changes. We are not as much in a hurry as we were when we were young.

In Judaism we are aware of the fact that our religion shapes time as well as ideas and morals. The religious calendar is a kind of counter calendar running alongside and sometimes across the one that rules the every day world.

There are those who say that “time flies!” If only there were more hours in the day, more days in the week, if only we could have accomplished that which we needed to in the specifically allotted time. But we know that we cannot subdue time. We cannot speed it up or slow it down.

There are others who say that “time is money!” But we know that time is so much more precious than money as we can always make more money but we can never repeat/recapture time.

However, the truth is that we have to pace ourselves and make the most of each and every G-d given day.

I am reminded of the young child who asked her mother: “Do days come back?” She responded: “No!” to which little girl said: “Good, because Monday and Thursday were terrible!” We all have our bad days, but because they do not come back we need to make them the very best possible.

Each new day presents us with an opportunity to create, to begin again.

May we always wisely and with affection cherish those moments of little things, those details of life.

As the author of the Book of Psalms reminds us: “Teach us to number our days that we may get us a heart of wisdom,” for time is the life of our soul.”

As always I would like to sincerely extend my heartfelt appreciation to Edward Scheff for creating and maintaining this wonderful calendar. It is a huge undertaking, one which Ed does with professionalism, dedication and joy.

May 5770 be a year filled with G-d’s richest blessings for you and those you hold dear.

May each new day be filled with promise, hope, fulfillment and happiness.

Enjoy using this calendar to participate in all of the many and varied events and services taking place at our Temple.
